Terms & Conditions

- Falsifying or manipulating travel records, boarding priorities, selling guest passes or registered companion and domestic partner travel privileges for profit or booking guest passes outside of the team member travel system is strictly prohibited.
- Any change to this reservation, including class of service or cities, may be subject to changes in post-travel service charges/fees per passenger. The flown itinerary will be billed at the applicable published travel service charges and/or fees.
- For international travel, view information about required identification and documentation using the International docs link found in the Tools section of Travel Planner.
- You may check two (2) bags free of charge per person on all domestic and most international flights. The maximum baggage size is 50 lbs. and 62 inches (length + width + height). If you exceed the free baggage allowance, you will need to pay the same excess baggage charges our revenue customers pay for any bags above the free allowance, overweight or oversized. Visit the checked baggage policy page on aa.com for more information.
- Traveling to Cuba? Visit aa.com/visitcuba before your trip for more information on steps you need to take before travel. Please note that all travelers, regardless of nationality, need a visa.
- Non-revenue travel on American Airlines is subject to American Airlines Team Member Travel Program guidelines, policies and procedures. Any misconduct in connection with team member travel privileges may result in suspension or revocation of travel privileges and may be subject to team member disciplinary action up to and including termination.
- Space available boarding priorities travel on a standby basis, boarded after all revenue customers and in order of boarding priority and time of check in.
- Security regulations may require American Airlines to disclose to government agencies the data you provide to American Airlines in connection with this reservation.
- For information on flight listing and checking in, please review the American Airlines Team Member Travel Program Guide. If you are a guest, please reach out to your sponsoring team member/retiree for assistance.
- Always have your proper identification and other required documents such as valid driver's license, passports and visas for international travel ready and available for the agent.
- Flights may fill up quickly. Please remember that revenue customers and higher priority team members or other non-revenue travelers will be boarded before you.
 - Operational restrictions may limit or prevent accommodation of non-rev, space available travelers.
- If a crew member or gate agent asks you to deplane for any reason please do so quickly and quietly.

- Non-rev pass travelers must not accept denied boarding compensation and/or re-accommodation while traveling on a non-rev, space available pass.
- Be courteous to airline personnel and follow instructions of the agents and crewmembers.
- Please pick up after yourself and the immediate area around you before deplaning. Give your newspapers and service items to the flight attendants prior to landing, or take them with you.
- You are responsible for payment of any inflight amenities or ancillary items. If you decide to drink, please drink responsibly.
- We are happy to be able to offer pass travel privileges to our team members, retirees and their guests. To preserve our Team Member Travel program we all need to do our part and follow these simple guidelines and procedures. Thank you for your cooperation and enjoy your flight!
- Please send your comments to American Airlines Team Member Travel at employeeservices@aa.com
